WORK EXPERIENCE

September 2013 - Current
Freelance Frontend Web Developer

As a freelancer, I enjoy working with many types of clients. I provide various services such as website design/setup, custom development, and graphics design.

My clients benefit from my ability to communicate expectations for a project and provide accurate timelines. I have experience in a variety of project and time management systems which makes me flexible, and able to work with any client at their comfort level.

I have made it a point to learn as much about the full stack web development process as I can so that I can effectively communicate with all members of any given team.

In addition to development, I am proficient at graphics design and have experience producing graphics for printable media as well as the web. Additional skills include designing and building custom fonts and video/audio editing.

PROFILE

I am a frontend web developer with extensive project management experience. I've worked as a frontend web developer in both freelance and corporate environments. Because of my experience, both in my freelance and current employment filling many roles, I have proven that I am proficient in time management as well as project management.

I have worked with many programs and systems which have given me the experience I need to set realistic expectations, requirements, and deadlines. I am also an experienced technical analyst with many years of experience walking customers through software problems and explaining technically complex concepts in layman's terms.

ADDITIONAL WORK EXPERIENCE

March 2010 - Current
Chief Architect Software

At Chief Architect Software, I work as a Front-End Web Programmer. I assist in many areas, such as troubleshooting problems with our software, updating, and maintaining our various websites and applications.

I also work closely with the Graphic Artists and Backend Developers to implement new interfaces and user experiences as the need arises.

I have also worked with our Content department to create custom fonts, textures, graphics, 3D assets, and videos.

May 2005 - 2010
U.S. Bank

As a Teller coordinator for U.S. Bank, I was responsible for the training, supervision, and scheduling of 6-8 employees. I completed leadership and coaching workshops during my time with U.S. Bank and personally coached tellers in making their referral goals, balancing their registers, and performing internal audits to ensure compliance.

I was also responsible for managing the bank's cash vault to ensure that our transactions balanced, and there was never more cash on hand than legally allowed, and still meet the daily needs of our business and customers.

Additional tasks that I personally initiated, were care calls to let people know that their accounts were about to be overdrawn before any fees hit. This was not only a great way for us to add value but also gave the tellers more opportunities to meet their referral goals by having conversations with our customers about additional services.
